An Introduction To Foundations: North Carolina's Early Learning Standards

The Office of School Readiness invites you to a workshop to learn more about Foundations, North Carolina's early learning standards for preschoolers. This workshop, Building will be repeated at three different locations across the state (see attached schedule).

Each workshop will provide:

- An overview of the principles guiding the use of Foundations;
- Information on the five domains by which the standards are organized;
- Strategies for using Foundations to guide your work;
- Opportunities to network with other early childhood colleagues; and
- Updates on future professional development opportunities for learning more about Foundations.

There is no cost to participate, but attendance is limited to the first 100 people to register for each location. To assure your participation, you must register in advance. To register, please complete the attached registration form and return it to Annette Brown by one of the methods indicated on the registration form. Be certain to indicate the location at which you wish to participate. Contact Joe Appleton at 919.981.5384 with any questions or concerns.

* Attendance at this workshop fulfills the prerequisite for people who plan to participate in future Foundations Institutes that prepare them to offer training to others.
